A plat of a piece of ground, 200 by 158 feet, on north Broadway street between Eighth and Ninth, owned by Miss Emma White, was submitted to the council with a resolution to approve same. The same was submitted to the city engineer for approval and action delayed two weeks until plat can be verified by engineer.

An ordinance to fix the tax levy for the next year was placed on first reading and then the rules were suspended and ordinance advanced to second. On second reading the rate of taxation was fixed as follows:

General Fund, 100 cents on each one hundred dollars of property and 50 cents on each taxable poll.

Library tax, 4 cents on each one hundred dollars.

Sewer tax, 6 cents on each one hundred dollars.

Special Fund, 20 cents on each one hundred dollars.

Total levy $1.30 on each one hundred dollars, which is the same as it was last year.

The ordinance was advanced to third reading, read by title and adopted.

The ordinance to fix salaries for four years beginning the first of January, 1910, was put on second reading and there was a general cut of salaries all along the line.

The salary of the Mayor was fixed at $700 a year, a reduction of $100. Vote on this was unanimous.

Salary of Clerk $650, a reduction of $100. Jerrell opposed this reduction and voted "No."

Salary of Treasurer $650, a reduction of $100. Jerrell also voted "No" on this reduction.

City Attorney $300, a reduction of $100. All voted "Aye."

Chief of Police $650, a reduction of $100. Unanimous.

City Engineer $800, a reduction of $100 over salary of present engineer and four hundred dollars less per year than former engineer. All voted "Aye" but Jerrell.

Fire Chief $60 a year. Firemen, $45 each per month. All voted "Aye" but Jerrell and Ahlert.

Streets sweeper, $1.10 per day each. Night police $1.75 each per night. Councilmen $100 each per year.

Members of Board of Works $10 each per year.

Members of Board of Safety $10 each per year.

Members of Board of Finance $10 each per year.

The salary of the clerk of the three boards named above was fixed at $50 a year which is only half as much as is paid at present.

Street Commissioner $1.75 per day. Secretary of Board of Health $128.70 per year. Other two members of B. of H. $50 each per year.

The ordinance granting the P. C. C. & St. L. the right to build a switch over Laurel street was placed on third reading and adopted.

Bids for concrete work on Ewing between Second and Third streets, east Fourth near Mill street, and on west Fourth were received. The contract was awarded to Harry Marberry. His bid was 45 cents per lineal foot for work on Ewing and 30 cents per lineal foot for each of the other jobs. Manuel & Pomeroy bid on the work but their bid was higher.

The contract to grade and gravel one block on east Third street was awarded to James DeGolyer at 18 cents per yard for grading and 62 cents per yard for graveling. This was the only bid on this work.

The county auditor reported in writing to the council that the gross assessment in the city of Seymour is $2,918,180, the mortgage deduction $103,390, leaving the net assessment $2,814,790. The total number of taxable polls reported is 1180.

Engineer Douglass submitted a profile for proposed grade of north Broadway per order of the council. The question at issue is the depth of cut to make and at the same time satisfy all the owners of adjacent property. Action was deferred until the councilman from the First Ward returns home.

The engineer reported that he had examined the main sewer so far as he could from manholes and found much debris in same that should be removed. The street commissioner was instructed to remove all this obstruction from the sewer at once. He was also instructed to clean open ditch below the opening of concrete sewer along railroad.

The marshal was instructed to look after moving out fence for opening of Carter street.

The city engineer was instructed to investigate and report on opening of east Second street towards the Greenman factory.

The street commissioner, on motion of Weaver, was instructed to gather up some stone in First Ward and build a crossing on Fifth street over Indianapolis avenue.

The matter of drainage on Indianapolis avenue between 7th and 9th streets was referred to engineer.

A report was made that the engineer was giving attention to the sewer trouble and would endeavor to find a solution of the difficulties now experienced.

Jackson reported that the general clean-up of the city had progressed satisfactorily, but the weeds on a few vacant lots had not been cut. The Board of Health wanted to know what to do and the suggestion was made that said board had abundant authority in such cases.

Council adjourned at 9:30.

Special Cars Engaged.

The two special cars which are to carry the battalion, the Seymour band and members of the Modern Woodmen lodge to Columbus on Friday evening will leave here at 6:30 p. m. Those desiring to go on these special cars are asked to be ready ten minutes before that time. There will be a special car leaving Columbus at 10:15 p. m. for the accommodation of the Seymour people. A second return special for the accommodation of the Modern Woodmen degree team and a few others will leave Columbus about midnight. Besides these there will be the regular car leaving Columbus about eleven o'clock and arriving here at 11:38 for the accommodation of other Seymour people outside of the battalion, the band and other Woodmen. No member of the battalion will go to Columbus ahead of the two special cars but all will go together and will arrive in time to take part in the parade and witness the entire evening program.

Captain Carter has selected eighteen of his twenty-two men to do the floor work and they were given a special drill Monday evening. The entire company will meet and drill again tonight.

Woodmen desiring to go on the special cars should be at the lodge meeting Wednesday evening to secure their tickets or secure them of Captain Carter between now and Thursday noon. It will be necessary to get your tickets ahead of time if you want to go on the specials as the traction company must know in advance what special accommodations will be necessary.

Age 57 years, 4 months and 22 days. She was born in Seymour and lived here all her life, with the exception of several years she lived in Vallonia and Brownstown. Her husband died about seventeen years ago. She leaves three children: Daniel, William and Charles, all of whom reside on S. Lynn street. There are also eight grandchildren living. She leaves one brother and three sisters: Louis Gary, of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. Charles Miller, of Indianapolis; Mrs. Anna Cochran, of Shelbyville, and Mrs. Frank Pasley.

Circuit Court.

Judge Shea and the lawyers are busy with the preliminary work of the September term of court. The docket was called Tuesday and several cases were set down for trial. Since court opened Monday morning there were a few pleas of guilty in state cases and judgment rendered.

Three state cases in which George Ryan was defendant were disposed of. He pleaded guilty in two and was fined one dollar and costs in each one and the third one was dismissed.

Alfred Moore entered a plea of guilty to the charge against him and was fined one dollar and cost.

William Burton and Eliza Ryan, the man and woman who were living together as man and wife west of Seymour until the real wife of Burton appeared on the scene, were arraigned and pleaded guilty. Each was fined $10 and given jail sentences of four months.

Charles Kitta and Joe Ganster, the boys who broke into John Mettett's store at Fleming a few months ago, pleaded guilty and were each fined $1 and sentenced to 90 days in jail but the court suspended the sentence and the boys were set at liberty on their promise of good behavior.

COLE'S SMOKE HOUSE.

Indiana Oil Wells.

In a recent report issued by the United States Government concerning the output of petroleum it is stated that there are 320 producing wells in Indiana. The bulletin shows that in 1902 over 7,000,000 barrels were produced at a value of nearly $7,000,000. The annual output gradually increased until 1904, when the report shows that over seven million barrels were produced at a value of twelve million dollars. From that time to the present the output has gradually decreased until now the annual production is only three million barrels and valued at three million dollars. Within the last year or so a large number of wells have been drilled but most of them produced but a small amount of petroleum.

Scottsburg Fair.

This is the week of the Scottsburg Fair, but since the management did no advertising in this county not many people in Jackson county know it.

BUSINESS COLLEGE

Began Another Successful Year Last Week.

The Seymour Business College, of which Prof. E. M. Ross is president, opened last week, after a short summer vacation. The management of this institution expects the coming year to be the most successful of its history, and will enroll many students who have signified their intention to attend this winter.

Prof. Ross has equipped this college with all the improvements found in modern schools of this character. Each student is given personal attention and individual instruction, which is considered the best method of teaching. This year several new typewriting machines of the latest models have been installed, which affords the students an opportunity to become acquainted with the newest types of machines with which they will work when actively engaged in commercial life.

One of the features of this school is that not only the theory of business is taught, but the actual business experience is had after the fundamental rules, such as found in text books, are mastered. All the fixtures as found in a bank or an office of a large wholesale house, have been built into the room and each student is given the training of receiving and paying money, and keeping several sets of books which must balance upon examination.

The school enrolls students from other states, showing its high standing with other institutions of kindred character. Upon completion of the course the students are found positions in any part of the country they desire. This college is represented by graduates in Texas, Iowa, Louisiana, New Mexico and many other distant states, besides a large number in this city and state.

Prof. Ross has endeavored to give his students every possible advantage and since he came to this city several years ago, has made many friends. Under its present efficient management the school is assured a successful future, and from this city and county will enroll many students who desire a good business training at a minimum expense.

Papers From Hawaii.

Back From West.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Short and son, Oscar, of Redding township, have returned from a six weeks' trip through the West. They visited their son in Washington, spent a day at the Seattle Exposition and stopped at numerous other places in the northwest, returning home by way of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Short was struck with some of the recent feats of engineering on this road and was pleased with many other features of their trip. They all had good health and talk interestingly of what they saw. The REPUBLICAN received a card from them a few days ago, written while they were near Brownsville, Ore. After that they went to Newport on the Pacific coast and spent Sunday and then started on their homeward trip through Canada.

Cranberries, celery, peaches, quinces, sweet apples, Teckemeyer's. s15c

Melon Season.

The season for shipping melons is drawing to a close and in a very short time there will be no home grown melons on the market. Nutmegs were plentiful this year but the quality was not as satisfactory to the growers as some years previous. The rains in the early summer were injurious to the vines and the blossoms and consequently the crop was not of such a superior quality as it would have been if weather conditions had been favorable. Watermelons grown in this part of the country are known everywhere and many hundred are shipped yearly from this county. In some of the larger cities Jackson county watermelons are advertised by dealers and a ready sale is always found for a melon with this name.

Watch for the sale at Hoadley's. s14d

Sells Suburban Home.

L. F. Miller has sold his place of twelve acres west of town where he and his family live, to Hugo Barth, of Rushville, Nebraska. Mr. Miller will give possession November 1. Mr. Barth formerly lived in Ripley county. He and his wife and their four youngest children came here from Nebraska on a visit about ten days ago, Mrs. Barth being a sister of Mrs. Anna Hoeferkamp of south Poplar street. Having closed the trade for this farm Mr. Barth left for Nebraska today to look after his affairs there and bring the rest of his family here for future residence. He owns a farm of 620 acres in Nebraska which he will either sell or rent.

The best cabinet photos only $1.00 per dozen, ten days only at the new gallery, 8 S. Chestnut street, Seymour. s15d16w

Lawyers Met.

The Jackson County Bar Association, its members being Jackson county lawyers, held a meeting at Brownstown Tuesday forenoon and elected the following officers: Frank Brannan, president; J. A. Cox, vice president; Bert Kasting, secretary; U. F. Lewis, treasurer.

A committee to arrange for the annual banquet was appointed. The members of this committee are D. A. Koehenour, F. S. Jones, and Ralph Applewhite.

Election Inspectors.

Monday night the city council appointed election inspectors who will serve at the city election, November 2nd, as follows:

First ward, 1st precinct, Travis Trumbo, 2nd precinct, Frank Bush. Second ward, John L. Vogel. Third ward, Theodore B. Riden. Fourth ward, Henry P. Miller. Fifth ward, Phil. Ramey.

Good Investment.

To men of moderate means as well as to men of large means, the Cooperative Building and Loan Association offers another of its splendid investment opportunities. Its next series of stock, Series T, will open on Monday Oct. 4th, and already many persons are inquiring of the Secretary, Thos. J. Clark about the stock. The steady growth of the business of this Association during the years of its history is the best evidence that it serves well the people in this community, and that it meets a real need. It offers to the person who can save twenty-five cents per week, or any multiple of this amount each week, the opportunity to place the money in these small weekly sums where the savings begin to draw interest from the very start. A person may lay away the same amount privately each week, if he would, but would not have the advantage of the interest which accumulates through the Cooperative. The Association takes the accumulated savings and loans them at once on first mortgage on real estate, the safest sort of investment, and then each quarter distributes the earnings among the stockholders, giving to each share holder the same advantage that a large capitalist has, in proportion to the amount of his stock. If you want a good, safe, profitable investment, see the secretary, Thos. J. Clark, Opera House Block, at once and take some stock in Series T.

A. M. E. Conference.

Rev. D. G. Lewallen, Mrs. C. D. Lamb and Rev. and Mrs. Hardin went to Muncie this morning to attend the annual conference of the A. M. E. church which will be conducted by Bishop C. M. Shaffer, of the Fourth Episcopal district of Indiana. The Seymour church passed resolutions to have Rev. Lewallen returned to this city, where he has had a very successful year.

An effort will be made to change the Seymour church from the Bedford conference to the Columbus district as it is often inconvenient for the pastor to attend the meetings on account of the distance.

Eggs Are High.

When eggs are selling at 24 cents a dozen at this season of the year as they are now, the consumer is entitled to twelve good eggs out of every dozen. The farmer, or the farmer's wife, who sells the eggs, violates the law by putting in bad eggs. The grocer knows that the law applies to him in the same way and he should be extremely careful in both buying and selling. He is expected to know that the eggs sold are good.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for their kind aid and sympathy during the long illness and at the death of our wife, mother and sister. We also thank Rev. Harley Jackson and undertaker Mr. Voss for their kindness.

DAVID S. REED AND CHILDREN.

Mr. David Elliott, of Lafayette, is visiting in the home of Rev. and Mrs. J. Omelvena. Mr. Elliott is deeply interested in church and mission work and is just now giving ten thousand dollars to be divided between Foreign missions and the Freedmen in our land. He and Mr. Omelvena have been warm friends for many years.

I have just opened a lunch stand where will be kept at all times the best line of cigars, tobacco, fruits, peanuts, candies, soft drinks and lunch of all kinds. Open at all hours night and day. Vogel's old stand, St. Louis Ave. Chas. H. Abell. s17d

THE WHITE FLOWERS.

A Mother Tribute From One Who Feels But Knows Not.

He never knew her. His coming into the world was the signal for her going forth. A few brief days she clasped him to her heart—the heart whose last beats were most for him; then, ere the baby eyes had learned to look with recognition upon her she kissed them closed and closed her own forever.

Vaguely, through life, he missed her. Times, as a boy, when the night wind moaned outside, and within fantastic figures and shapes of fear formed in the darkness, he covered beneath the covers of his cot and wept passionately for something that he wanted, but could not name—though afterward he knew that the thing he craved was sheltering mother love. His playmates had ever a source of unflinching love and sympathy, from which he saw them copiously and continuously draw; and he felt that the fates had left something out of the scheme of his life, and in the midst of the buoyancy of youth his eyes would grow wistful and his heart sad.

Then a man—and sometimes, after the struggle of the day, when came the quiet hour—musing o'er flood and field, or gazing far out into the sad and solemn sea—he would dream of the land beyond which the setting sun—of the mystic glories which eye hath not seen—and of her, who loved him first! Aye, others came and crept into his heart, and filled it with a love that was almost pain; but in its innermost holy of holies he kept ever a chamber inviolate for the mother he never knew.

And it pleased him to believe that though he saw her not, she walked through life beside him, and many times made her presence felt in sweet suggestion or kindly need, in silent stirrings of the heart that turned him from temptation's way. And whatever of good, or gentleness, or generous impulse ever blossomed in his life, to her he gave the credit.

Therefore, on Mother's Day, when thousands have the blessed privilege of laying the votive offering of their love at living mothers' feet, and other thousands live ever tender memories of days when mothers walked by their side—he wears the white flower for her—for her to whom he believes his nature owes its best.

So, in the dusk of this dear day, while the flower is fading, though its fragrance lingers still, he writes these lines for the sake of those who, like to him, knew mother only in the land of dreams.—Lakeland (Fla.) News.

BALLOONING FIFTY YEARS AGO.

A Novel Sport When Prof. Wise Was Making Discoveries.

Ballooning was regarded as a distinctly novel sport fifty years ago, aeroplanes not having been dreamed of and dirigibles being quite out of the range of public imagination. In the Washington Star of June 24, 1859, there is an article descriptive of a projected balloon trip from St. Louis to the Atlantic seaboard, a distance of over a thousand miles. It was expected that the hazardous undertaking would be made during the week of the publication or that following. Those engaged in the enterprise were Prof. John Wise, a well-known aeronaut, and C. H. Gaeger and John Lamontain, their balloon being named the Atlantic. The Star said:

"Prof. Wise is an unassuming and agreeable gentleman, very reasonable in his views, and quite competent to sustain them on scientific principles. He contends that at a distance of from three to four miles from the earth there is a current of wind blowing from west to east which is constantly the same, never varying in its direction and rarely in the rate of velocity. On this proposition he has experimented for years, and has not failed once to observe the invariable feature. As soon as he discovered this phenomenon seventeen years ago he conceived the idea that it was not impossible to navigate the air from America to Europe. In furtherance of this purpose he applied to his friends for assistance, but they hooted at the project as crack-brain. He next petitioned Congress for aid, but that body was too much engrossed with every-day affairs. And thus the balloonist was forced to forego his cherished idea until some months ago, when he associated with the Messrs. Gaeger and Lamontain, the former the inventor of a balloon boat with air wheels, and the latter a balloon builder. The three went to work immediately and in a few days we shall see the success which will attend the first trial."

ENEMIES OF THE BIRDS.

Result of Training Robins—Domestic Cats and Nestlings.

In the Northern States many of the protected birds are induced to build their nests in or near buildings and they are fed and sometimes partially tamed. Forest and Stream says. This is commendable, of course, but robins, for example, are included in the list of game birds in some of the Southern States, and efforts made to tame them here may result in their destruction on their southward flight in the autumn. Accustomed to frequent the homes of their northern friends, if they evince similar habits in the south they are often killed for the pot.

In the course of time the Southern States will protect these birds, but until this is done it would be well to remember the result of feeding birds near our homes. Of course the mere fact that they are not molested while in the north causes many birds to nest round about houses, but if they must be fed, this should not be done near dwellings.

There are few women who view with calmness the killing of harmless birds by cats. On the other hand, there are few owners of cats who take any steps to prevent these depredations. The taming of birds in places where cats are permitted to roam at will means certain death to a large majority of such birds, and so far as we know there is only one preventive, and that is to remove the cat from its field of activity.

The theory that cats keep the country home free from rats and mice is pretty—or was before puss, pampered and overfed, became more fond of the heat of the kitchen range or the sun than of her traditional hunting fields. Now that the birds are encouraged to nest near by, almost within her reach, with a minimum of effort she varies her diet now and then with a nestling and is content.

To prevent hounds from hunting foxes we confine them until ready to accompany them, but we encourage song birds to nest near dwellings and at the same time permit one of their worst enemies to harry them daily.

ENGLISH HOUSEBOATING.

Delights of a Recreation That Is Little Known in America.

It is a source of regret to those who have tasted the luxuries of houseboating in England that such recreation is not popular in America, where even better opportunities are afforded than in the old country, says the National Food Magazine. The houseboats along the Thames are the creation of those who love easy living in the summer time. There are no residences that are planned so perfectly for comfort as these same houseboats. They are of all sizes, from one that is just big enough for the newly married couple to the floating palaces that will entertain an army of guests. They are very graceful in design and color. In fact, the painter's color box seems to have been ransacked to secure the tints that riot along the banks of the Thames. The boats anchor close to the bank and a plank is run out to get ashore. At night the plank is hauled in. Some boats have their own power, others hire a tow when a change of location is desired.

The regular program of the houseboat is to rise at 6 a. m. and take a plunge and a long swim. After this comes breakfast, spread under the awning on the roof. Then, after a loaf, is a walk in the woods or along some quiet country road. After lunch there is a long easy pull to some quiet and retired nook under the trees that line the bank and an afternoon spent in dozing away the time or else reading the latest novel while a companion tinkles on a mandolin or twangs a guitar. The evening is spent in visiting each other's boats until about 10 o'clock, when every one turns in for the night.

Wives and Wives.

"Mahomedans are not so much more reckless in their number of wives," remarked the Arabian doctor who makes his home in New York, "than New Yorkers. The principal difference is that, instead of living in New Jersey rather than pay them all in New York, we keep them all together in one house at home. Expensive on account of Easter hats? Not at all. The Arabian women wear veils, which are not expensive. But in the matter of the number of wives, many Mahomedans are very exclusive in that particular. For example, while my uncle has 25 wives, my father has never had but one, my mother. My parents are both now nearly 90 years old, but they are as much in love as they were when they were first married, and I am their only son. My uncle, who has 25 wives, has no children."

In the Future.

"Papa," asks the small boy in the year 1950, "what was a zoo?" "A zoo, my son," explains the indulgent father, "was a place where wild animals, such as lions, tigers, elephants, rhinoceri and hippopotami, were kept on exhibition." "Gee! Why don't they have zoos nowadays?"

"A man by the name of Roosevelt went to Africa and killed all the supply."—Judge.

Bad News for Our Doctors.

"And now that you are through college, what are you going to do?" "I shall study medicine." "Rather crowded profession already, isn't it?" "Can't help that. I shall study medicine, and those who are already in the profession will have to take their chances, that's all."—Boston Transcript.

A Toast.

To Eve, who, recognizing the value of a higher education, secured it for herself and her descendants, while Adam thought only of tickling his palate.—Life.

Very Much So.

"I hope the man you are engaged to is a man of deeds." "He ought to be; he's a real estate dealer."—Baltimore American.

A married man enjoys attending a wedding almost as much as he does a funeral.

But for the limelight many a theatrical star would cease to shine.

Questions.
Why do grown people, when they've lived so long,
Forever say the very thing that's wrong?

Strangers, I mean, who come to call and see Me busy playing, so must question me.
For years I've tried to be polite and they Have said the same things in the same old way.

Imagine all the times I've answered
"Yes,"
I like my teacher and my school, I guess."

And then they smile and look at one another,

FOR YEARS I'VE TRIED TO BE POLITE.

And ask how I should like a baby brother.

And then they ask me what I think I'd rather Be, when I am a great big man like father.

And if I don't think mother would prefer
That I should always stay at home, with her?

Esaw Would Say.

Esaw Wood sawed wood.
Esaw Wood would saw wood.
All the wood Esaw Wood saw Esaw Wood would saw to saw Esaw sought to saw.

Oh, the wood Wood would saw! And oh, the wood saw with which Wood would saw wood.
But one day Wood's wood saw would saw no wood, and thus the wood Wood sawed was not the wood Wood would saw if Wood's wood saw would saw.

No, Wood would saw wood with a wood saw that would saw wood, so Esaw sought a saw that would saw wood.

One day Esaw saw a saw saw wood as no other wood saw Wood saw would saw wood.

In fact, of all the wood saws Wood ever saw saw wood Wood never saw a wood saw that would saw wood as the wood saw wood saw saw wood would saw wood, and I never saw a wood saw that would saw wood, so saw Wood saw would saw until I saw Esaw Wood saw wood with the wood saw Wood saw saw wood.

Now Wood saws wood with the wood saw Wood saw saw wood.

Oh, the wood the wood saw Wood saw would saw!

Oh, the wood Wood's woodshed would shed when Wood would saw wood with the wood saw Wood saw wood!

Finally, no man ever knew how much wood the wood saw Wood saw would saw, if the wood saw Wood saw would saw all the wood the wood saw Wood saw would saw.—Woman's Home Companion.

The Little Helper.

Grandpa was sitting on the porch one warm spring day, when Tommy came in from his garden with two little wrinkles puckered right across his forehead.

"Grandpa," said he, "why did Noah let any toads come into his ark?"

"What do you mean, Tommy?" asked grandpa, hiding his smile behind his newspaper.

"Cause I just wish he had let them all drown," said Tommy in a disgusted tone. "I went out to sow some sweet-william seeds, 'cause you know William is pa's name, and there was a great big toad right in the middle of my garden. I most know he is waiting there to eat up my seeds."

"Toads do not eat seeds," said grandpa. "Do you suppose that toad is not good for something?"

"You said the earthworms were little spades and dug my garden for me," said Tommy, thoughtfully. "But a toad can't dig, and I don't see what use he is, anyway."

"Well, then, I will show you," said grandpa.

So he went to the workshop and chose four blocks of wood of the right shape and size. He carried them to the garden and built a little house of them beside a row of young squash plants. Then he gave the toad a ride on the coal shovel from Tommy's garden to the little blockhouse.

"This is Mr. Toad's house," said grandpa. "We will leave him here and never disturb him."

Mr. Toad seemed to take kindly to his new quarters. He was often seen sitting in his front door and looking out with a very serious expression, winking his bright eyes and spreading his fingers just as baby spreads hers when Tommy counted, "O-u-t, out," on them. Tommy was very much amused, but still he could not see how the toad did any good.

"Neighbor Smith says that the bugs have eaten up all his squash vines," said grandpa, one day. "Why have they not touched ours, Tommy?"

Tommy did not know.

"How about our lodger in the garden?" said grandpa, smiling.

"Do you mean Mr. Toad?" asked Tommy. "Does he catch the bugs?"

"If you watched him long enough you would see," said grandpa. "When he sits in his front door, he is taking care of our garden, and when a trespasser comes along, Mr. Toad arrests him at once. The least that we can do for him is to give him a house rent free, don't you think so?"

"O grandpa," said Tommy, eagerly, "is everything in the whole world of some use?"—Youth's Companion.

HISTORIC CABIN LOGS MIXED.

Timbers from Jeff Davis' Birthplace Said to Be in Lincoln's Home.

The war's over and North and South have united and the hatchet is buried, but, oh, the suffering ghosts of Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis! There can be no doubt of the firmness of the Union if the allegations which have just come to light are true, for it is said that in the recently-erected cabin, in which Abraham Lincoln was born in Larue County, there are two logs from the natal cabin of Jefferson Davis, says a Louisville dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer. According to the story, the cabin in which Lincoln was born on the old Lincoln farm and the one in which Davis was born in Todd County were purchased some fifteen or twenty years ago by A. W. Denette of New York. The Lincoln cabin was exhibited at the World's Fair at Chicago and at other points. The two cabins did not make their appearance together, however, until the Southern Exposition was held at Nashville. There the two cabins stood side by side and formed one of the features of the exposition. According to the story, the logs of both were then taken East and were stored in a warehouse at Bridgeport, Conn. Mr. Denette failed in business and it is not known whether the cabins were placed in the warehouse at his own direction or by order of the court, but at any rate the claim is made that they were stored together, and it was during the time spent there that the logs, not to be outdone by men and women in declaring their loyalty to the Union, got together and buried all their differences. The Lincoln cabin was later removed to New York and was not sent to Kentucky until the homecoming, which was celebrated in the commonwealth several years ago.

The logs were then stored in Louisville, but last February were taken to the old Lincoln farm in Larue County, to be erected on the spot where they stood a hundred years ago, when they furnished shelter for Abe Lincoln when he was born.

According to the story, when workmen were erecting the Lincoln cabin all the logs, which were lettered and numbered, fitted into place except two. They were mysterious strangers and are said to have been eighteen inches longer than their mates. It was found that, while they did not fit into the Lincoln cabin, the cabin was incomplete without the two logs, so eight-inch inches were sawed off each of the strange timbers and they were placed in position. Yellow clay was put over the ends, so it is said as to prevent spectators from seeing where they had been sawed off. Persons in close touch with the history of the farm, the two cabins and their history declare that the two logs which were longer than the others were logs from the Jefferson Davis cabin and that they got away from their mates in the Bridgeport (Conn.) warehouse. After the celebration at Hodgenville on Feb. 12 the old Lincoln cabin was again dismantled and the precious logs were brought to Louisville for safe keeping. After the Memorial hall is completed the cabin will be re-erected in the center of the ground floor. If the two logs from the Jefferson Davis cabin are really parts of the present Lincoln cabin it is claimed that, although the condition is due entirely to an error, the sentiment will be fine.

A Deal That Fell Through.

"Baron Fewcash was rather exacting as to the dot."

"That wasn't what broke the engagement," answered Mr. Currox. "I don't object to seeing a young man look out for his interests. But when he applied for a cash advance in order to buy an engagement ring, I must say it struck me as unbusinesslike."—Washington Star.

A Deal That Fell Through.

The average man would like his wife to be a practical and sensible woman, yet if she is it's ten to one he'll be afraid of her.

BRAZILIAN GIRL'S EMBROIDERY.

Her Handiwork Is Conspicuous on All the Household Linen.

The time an American girl puts in at painting, pyrography, cookery, riding and golf the Brazilian devotes to shooting a needle threaded with a harsh strand of linen back and forth through the corners of the sheets and pillow cases and towels with which she is going to furnish her future household, a writer in the Los Angeles Times says.

Sometimes she works out her whole first name, but usually only a fanciful scroll work of initials in the form of a monogram. No superficial, laundry mark kind of work is this, but a substantial basrelief, which rears itself from a quarter to half an inch from the supporting fabric and waits as maliciously as the stinging nettle in the mud or the nettle in the thicket for some one to rub against it.

I had been warned not to be alarmed at any night prowling insect or animal which might enter my open room the first time I slept in a Brazilian bed, and so took it quite coolly when I rolled over upon a sharp-toothed monogram, thinking it was nothing more than a vampire bat or perhaps my shoe.

When on another occasion I slept all night with the last three letters of the "Dolores" of my pillow case sinking into my cheek, to follow it the next morning by rasping the whole length of the name on a towel across the abraded place, I must confess to being slightly annoyed. Dolores, Augusta or even Maria in three-inch letters do not leave a great deal of room for absorptive purposes on a piece of one by three linen, and the novice will find it safer until he has learned to take up the moisture with little dabs to carry his own towels.

If a bed must be occupied the monogram on the sheet may be rendered more or less innocuous by hunting it down before you turn in and tucking it under the mattress. Careful manipulation will occasionally also dispose of the danger zone on the pillow.

FASHIONS IN EVENING DRESS.

Seventeenth Century Modes Are Revolutionizing Certain Styles.

Evening gowns are gradually taking on new lines, full skirts from the waist, pointed bodices, low round décolletés and tight sleeves to the elbow, finished off with a soft, falling flounce of lace, the Philadelphia Record says. Only very daring persons have worn these models so far, but undoubtedly they will be seen later, as two leading firms have launched them and about half a dozen leaders of fashion have ordered adaptations from the original models.

They are exquisitely graceful, and they recall a very brilliant period in French history, for did not the pointed bodice and full skirt hold their own all through the reigns of the three Louis?

The coiffure worn with these seventeenth century gowns shows side ringlets and a middle parting, very quaint and stately, and as far removed from modern coiffures as can be imagined. Indeed, the modern manner of hair-dressing is an everlasting problem to the simple-minded, for to be successful it necessitates many false curls and a maid. Of course artists talk of a charming negligence, but that in reality means untidiness. So we come back to a choice of evils—curls that take off, or an undue amount of French combing and waving with hot irons. A hair specialist votes for curls that take off without hesitation, and a very constant and regular care of the ones that do not. The latest mode in Paris is the low puff all round the head, giving a casque effect; but it can scarcely be called becoming; rather one would say pretty women look well in spite of it. Therefore the die is still to side and front puffs, with curls running riot on the crown.

Forewarned.

A little chap was offered a chance to spend a week in the country, but refused.

Coaxing, pleading, arguing, promising of untold wonders alike brought from him nothing but the stubborn ultimatum, "No country for me!"

"But why not?" some one asked finally.

"Because," he responded, "they have thrashin' machines down there, and it's bad enough here where it's done by hand."—Tit-Bits.

An Unsisterly Avowal.

"Women would unquestionably exercise a refining influence on politics," said the suffragette.

"Yes," answered Miss Cayenne wearily; "I have no doubt that convention badges would be greatly increased in decorative value and that campaign buttons would be vastly more numerous."—Washington Star.

TRUMPET CALLS.

Ram's Horn Sounds a Warning Note to the Unredeemed.

In the meadow where the artist catches a glimpse of heaven the farmer sees nothing but hay.

The Lord has never been able to do very much for the man whose religion is all in his

One of the things the Bible always puts in italics is backbone.

There is no surer way of wasting time than by half-splitting about anything.

Don't loan your money to the man who treats his dog better than he does his wife.

Some of the biggest things upon which angels look are never mentioned in the newspapers.

The devil must feel very much at home when he finds himself in the company of some men.

The only reason why we don't see the face of truth everywhere is because we live too low down.

The preacher who never helps a saint or makes a sinner mad, has probably misunderstood the Lord.

The man who crawls under the bed when it thunders and stays there until the sun comes out again, is not likely to have a very big niche in any hall of fame.

One reason why it takes the millennium so long to come is that so many of us are more concerned about the mote in our brother's eyes than we are about the beam in our own.

DON'T NEED TO DROWN.

If Bathers in Trouble Use Common Sense There Is Little Danger.

Ninety-nine times in 100 drowning is the result of fright and frenzy, says a writer in the New York Press. There is a public horror of cramps. Not one case of cramps in 1,000 is dangerous if the victim knows what to do and does it. Every long-distance swimmer entering a race expects to get cramps, yet he doesn't drown and he doesn't stop swimming, either. He keeps going until his legs are in knots; still, he doesn't sink. He plugs along until there isn't another kick in him, and even now he doesn't go down. Instead of that he rolls over on his back and waits for the boat to pick him up. It may be a minute or it may be an hour, but until the boat comes the expert will be floating around like a ship.

When you catch a cramp in your arms or legs don't get excited. You may yell, but keep yourself under control. Don't exert yourself, for it takes little or no effort to keep afloat. Stretch out your arm or leg, as the case may be, until you are straining to the utmost. Then strain a bit harder and watch the lumped muscle go down.

The dangerous cramp is in the stomach. When that takes you your breath goes, and you're not able to shout for help or even to articulate a sound. I have known of just two cases among hundreds of thousands of swimmers. When you get that kind of cramp you may as well say your prayers, but you won't get it if you don't eat for two hours before going into the water. Professional swimmers go hungry half a day before entering a race, and they never know of such a thing as stomach cramp.

If a bather in trouble would use common sense he never would drown. The belief is general that three times under water for the drowning person means cramp and flowers. It's true, if you make the mistake of taking water for air. Hold your mouth shut when you are under water and you'll keep going down and coming up all day. Don't exhaust yourself struggling. Relax every muscle and don't move a hand. You'll find that you'll never sink lower than your ears, and that in a few seconds you'll rise up until your shoulders are dry. You can keep on doing this indefinitely, but, of course, if you drink water you'll be weighted and down you'll go.

Made a Difference to Him.

A well-known scientist was lecturing on the sun's heat, and in the course of his remarks said: "It is an established fact that the sun is gradually but surely losing its heat and in the course of years it will be exhausted; consequently this world of ours will be dead and like the moon, unable to support any form of life."

At this juncture a member of his audience rose, in an excited manner, and said:

"Pardon me, professor, but how many years did you say it would be before this calamity overtakes us?"

The Professor—Seventy millions, sir. "Thank God," was the reply. "I thought you said seven millions."—Success Magazine.

The Craving for Sugar.

But there is this fundamental difference between the craving for sugar and that for "sours," acids, vinegar, pickles, etc., alcohol, and for other keen flavors and highly attractive luxuries, that it is a real food of very high food-value and very promptly and readily absorbable, which none of the others are, except in small degree. As we have seen, this violent craving for sugar, leading to excess, largely disappears in children when their healthy demand for it is supplied by a proper mixture with their foods; while no child yet has ever inherited or been born with a taste for alcohol, pickles, tea, coffee or tobacco.—Success Magazine.

TAFT PREPARES FOR LONG TRIP

Will Start Wednesday On Swing Around Circle.

ITINERARY OF THE JOURNEY

Leading Through Thirty States and Two Territories Besides a Side Trip Into Mexico, President Taft Will Cover a Distance Equal to Half the Circumference of the Globe Before Reaching Washington Nov. 10.—He Will Dine With President Diaz on Foreign Soil Oct. 16.

Beverly, Mass., Sept. 13.—On Wednesday, following his attendance at a dinner tendered him by the chamber of commerce at Boston tomorrow night, President Taft will begin a journey scheduled to conclude at Washington on the eve of Nov. 10. From Boston the objective point will be Chicago, where the president will spend Thursday, leaving later for the west and southwest and swinging around through the south until he has traveled a distance equal to one-half the circumference of the globe.

Leading through thirty states and both of the far southwestern territories, the president's trip will reach its climax at El Paso, Tex., on Oct. 16, where he will meet President Diaz of Mexico. The meeting will be surrounded with all the pomp and dignity which such a rare occasion demands, and after Mr. Taft has formally received President Diaz at El Paso he will cross the international bridge to Ciudad Juarez, officially to return the call of the chief executive of the southern republic. During the evening of the 6th, President Taft will be entertained at a state dinner on Mexican soil. President Diaz will be entertained at luncheon at El Paso.

The president's trip covers an itinerary of 12,759 miles, and his private cars, the Mayflower and the Haslemere, will be handled over twenty-two different railroad systems. The voyage down the Mississippi river from St. Louis to New Orleans on the steamboat Mississippi covers 1,165 miles and occupies four days and five nights. In addition to the meeting with President Diaz and the voyage down the Mississippi river, a trip which President Roosevelt made several years ago, the striking incidents of President Taft's tour will include a moonlight ride through the Royal Gorge and a night trip over the highest passes of the Rocky mountains; an inspection of one of the greatest irrigation projects in all the west, at Montrose, Col.; a visit to the smelters at Butte; a flying visit to the Coeur d'Alene country of northern Idaho; a two-days' stay at the Alaska-Yukon exposition at Seattle; a day of sight-seeing down the Shasta route in California; a three-days' visit to the Yosemite valley; a day spent about the rim of the grand canyon in Arizona, and four days on the ranch of the president's brother, Charles P. Taft, near Corpus Christi, Tex.

Five of his nine cabinet officers will at different times be the guests of the president for portions of the trip, and after he reaches the Pacific coast there will be from two to four with him practically all of the time.

Leaving Boston Wednesday, the president's party will consist of himself, Captain Archibald W. Butt, his military aide; Wendell W. Mischler, assistant secretary; Charles C. Wagner, executive stenographer; Dr. J. J. Richardson of Washington; Gerritt Fort, assistant to the vice president of the New York Central lines, who will have all of the transportation arrangements for the entire trip in charge; James Sloan, Jr., and Joseph E. Murphy, secret service operatives; Arthur Brooks, messenger, and six newspaper men.

The cabinet officers who will be with the president at the meeting with President Diaz are the secretary of state Mr. Knox; the secretary of war, Mr. Dickinson; the postmaster general, Mr. Hitchcock, and the secretary of commerce and labor, Mr. Nagel. The secretary of the Interior, Mr. Ballinger, is expected to be with the president during the greater part of the time he spends in the northwest. The president has also invited a number of United States senators and personal friends to make portions of the journey as his friends.

A Shocking Home-Coming.
Kewanee, Ill., Sept. 13.—When Jas. Atkinson stepped from a train here upon returning from a visit in Nebraska, he found rescuers dragging the body of his dying son Samuel, aged twenty-five, from under a freight train on a switch track. The young man had gone to the depot to meet his father. He died in his father's arms.

Never Saw Him Again.

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Fannie Wagner has brought suit for annulment of her marriage to Richard Wagner. Wagner, who represented himself as a Chicago commission merchant, is alleged to have disappeared a few hours after the wedding with $1,000 of his wife's savings. She says she never saw him again.

Why Druggists Recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. Frank C. Hanrahan, a prominent druggist of Portsmouth, Va., says: "For the past six years I have sold and recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is a great remedy and one of the best patent medicines on the market. I handle some others for the same purposes that pay me a larger profit, but this remedy is so sure to effect a cure, and my customer so certain to appreciate my recommending it to him, that I give it the preference." For sale by C. W. Milhous.

NOTHING TO ADD

The Elkins Family Will Not Talk to Newspaper Men.

Paris, Sept. 13.—Neither Miss Katherine Elkins, her mother nor her brother, who arrived here Saturday, would make any statement to newspaper men as to their plans. The arrival of the Duke of the Abruzzi at Marseilles has created much speculation in the American colony as to whether this does not mean a renewal of the romance which many Americans here believe never was really broken off. It is reported that the duke after going to Italy will proceed to Switzerland, where he will meet Miss Elkins.

A Sprained Ankle.

As usually treated a sprained ankle will disable the injured person for a month or more, but by applying Chamberlain's Liniment and observing the directions with each bottle faithfully, a cure may, in most cases, be effected in less than one week's time. This liniment is a most remarkable preparation; try it for a sprain or a bruise, or when laid up with chronic or muscular rheumatism, and you are certain to be delighted with the relief which it affords. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

Mayor Leads Blackbird Hunt.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Sept. 13.—Mayor Morgan headed a party of shooters that waged war on the countless thousands of blackbirds that have made a roosting place out of the trees in the Methodist park. Hundreds of birds were killed, frequently a dozen at one shot. Pearl Holycross made the record of eighteen at one shot.

Best Treatment for a Burn.

If for no other reason, Chamberlain's Salve should be kept in every household on account of its great value in the treatment of burns. It allays the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a severe one, heals the wound without leaving a scar. This salve is also unequalled for chapped hands, sore nipples and diseases of the skin. Price, 25 cents. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

Great Comet Coming Back.

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 13.—Halley's comet, for which astronomers have been eagerly watching, has been seen, after an absence of seventy years, according to a dispatch received at the Harvard observatory from Prof. Wolf of Heidelberg. It could be made out only with a large telescope.

Good for Billiousness.

"I took two of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets last night, and I feel fifty per cent. better than I have for weeks," says J. J. Firestone, of Allegan, Mich. "They are certainly a fine article for billiousness." For sale by C. W. Milhous. Samples free.

Fatal Wreck on C. &amp; B. &amp; Q.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 13.—A passenger train on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy and an extra stock train were in a head-on collision at the station of Burnham, four miles southwest of Lincoln Sunday. Two men were killed outright and nine injured.

Why?

From a small beginning the sale and use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has extended to all parts of the United States and to many foreign countries. Why? Because it has proved especially valuable for coughs and colds. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

Killed by Bursting Fan.

Greensburg, Ind., Sept. 13.—Walter Cory, thirty-seven years old, a wealthy farmer, was instantly killed by being struck over the heart by a piece of flying steel from a blower on an ensilage machine, which burst.

PAYMENT OF BRIBE MONEY

Sensational Testimony In Graft Trial at Chicago.

AN INSPECTOR ON THE RACK

In the Trial of Police Inspector Edward McCann a Saloon Keeper Testifies to the Part He Took as Go-Between in the Payment of Hush Money by Illegal Houses to the Inspector—Details of the System as Revealed by a Witness in Judge Barber's Court.

Chicago, Sept. 11.—For the protection of illegal establishments payment of bribe money to Edward McCann while he was inspector of police at the Des Plaines street station, was testified to under oath in Judge Barber's court by Louis Frank, a member of the saloon firm of Frank Brothers, and one of the principal witnesses for the state. This testimony was given after two attempts of attorneys for the defense to free McCann on technicalities had been frustrated by the court, who overruled objections made by the defense to certain counts in the indictment.

Frank testified that he first met McCann in the inspector's office at the Des Plaines street police station in March, 1908, through Police Sergeant Charles Hawkins and that later the inspector sent for him on a plea that he wanted to see him. He described his visit to the inspector in response to this request and testified that in his office the police official asked him to collect money which the proprietors of illegal establishments would bring to him, in accordance with an arrangement which would be forthcoming as soon as he agreed. Then Frank told of conferring with his brother Julius and finally of agreeing to do what the inspector wanted.

"What was the agreement?" asked State's Attorney Wayman.

"They were to pay me $20 from each house at my saloon," replied the witness.

"Who did they hand the money to?"

"To myself or my brother or the bookkeeper."

"When did collections commence?"

"The first of each month."

"Where did you deliver the money?"

"At the police station to McCann."

In answer to the next question Frank said McCann told him on one occasion that he had to be careful, as "they" were after him.

"What did the defendant say?" asked Mr. Wayman.

"Don't pin any more slips onto the money as you have been doing. Give me the money separately and make out your own record."

"Did you ever pay McCann this graft money elsewhere than at the station?"

"Yes, at his home."

"Did you ever go there with any one?"

"I went with Max Plummer. Some woman was arrested charged with pandering. I went to the inspector's room and told him that Plummer wanted to fix it up so the woman would not be sent to prison. McCann told me it would cost $300 if he did. I went out and told Plummer what the inspector said and Plummer said he could pay only $250. I went and told McCann. He said all right, and I got the money from Plummer and paid it to McCann."

Frank was questioned further along this line and said the jury returned a verdict of not guilty against the woman. He also said he bought three barrels of alcohol at $2.80 a gallon out of his own money and sent it to the inspector's house at the latter's request.

Frank then proceeded to tell how a man named Petoskey was unable to get a hotel license. Frank said he took Petoskey to see McCann.

"How much is there in it for me," said McCann," continued Frank. "How much do you want? I asked him." Frank said McCann asked for $50, and he gave it to him. Petoskey got the license, according to Frank.

Frank then told how he was ordered by McCann to eject Annie Green, Max Plummer's wife, when she stopped paying protection money to McCann.

Frank then told of collecting money from various sources and turning it all over to McCann.

Shot Man in Feud.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 13.—After making the statement that he shot Deputy Sheriff Isaac Clark, Lewis Gregory, also a deputy sheriff, died from wounds received in a political feud battle in this county. Clark was killed instantly.

Curtiss Does Well.

Brescia, Sept. 13.—Glenn H. Curtiss, the American aviator, who won the international cup at Rheims, added further honors to his brilliant record by capturing the grand prize in the aviation meet here Sunday.

So many people hang up their pictures and that's the end of it. They never dream of changing them about. Now, that seems a pity. If you live in the same rooms year after year and see the same pictures in the same places you end by not seeing them.

The Year 5670.

According to the Jewish calendar the year 5670 dawns tomorrow, Sept. 15. The day is known as Rosh Hashona and will be celebrated in the synagogues in the cities.

The year 5670 Anno Mundi will be the eighth of the two hundred and ninety-ninth lunar cycle of nineteen years since the creation, according to Jewish reckoning, and it is the fourteenth year of the two hundred and third solar cycle of twenty-eight years also counting from creation.

In tracing the probable sources, hidden in the midst of prehistoric times, of the method of computation under the Jewish calendar it has been found that the first years in the primitive calendars, were composed of five months of thirty days each. It is also contended that before the five month year was adopted, the term year was applied to one month. This meant that the period of a moon cycle was termed a year.

By applying the modern calendar and making the reductions from this older method of calculating and measuring time some students have figured out the age of Methuselah to be 782 years instead of 930.

WELCOME WORDS TO WOMEN

Women who suffer with disorders peculiar to their sex should write to Dr. Pierce and receive free the advice of a physician of over 40 years' experience—a skilled and successful specialist in the diseases of women. Every letter of this sort has the most careful consideration and is regarded as sacredly confidential. Many sensitively modest women write fully to Dr. Pierce what they would shrink from telling to their local physician. The local physician is pretty sure to say that he cannot do anything without "an examination." Dr. Pierce holds that these distasteful examinations are generally needless, and that no woman, except in rare cases, should submit to them.

Dr. Pierce's treatment will cure you right in the privacy of your own home. His "Favorite Prescription" has cured hundreds of thousands, some of them the worst of cases.

It is the only medicine of its kind that is the product of a regularly graduated physician. The only one good enough that its makers dare to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper. There's no secrecy. It will bear examination. No alcohol and no habit-forming drugs are found in it. Some unscrupulous medicine dealers may offer you a substitute. Don't take it. Don't trifle with your health. Write to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.,—take the advice received and be well.

THE MEADOW.

I knew a way—will you go, my dear,
Will you follow the path with me—
The path that leads from the Now and Here
Forth into Arcady?
Where always the rose is red and sweet,
Where always the skies are blue,
Where there is rest for wandering feet
In the Meadow Where Dreams
Come True.

Bid farewell to your bitter grief,
Laugh at your haunting care;
Loose the fetters of unbelief—
Arcady's flowers are fair,
Make you a garland of daffodils,
With never a sprig of rue,
And we'll follow the path o'er the happy hills,
To the Meadow Where Dreams Come True.

We will dream our dreams as the hours go,
We will fashion them fair and fine,
And all of my dreams will be yours,
you know,
And all of your dreams be mine.
Dear, will you follow the path with me?
I'm waiting for you, for you!
To take the path into Arcady,
To the Meadow Where Dreams Come True.

The Mirage of the Plains

The next day, when she was packing her books, her hair disheveled, her fingers dusty, the hallway brought a card. There was some self-distrust in her frown; but she told the boy to bring up the caller, and went on packing.

Henri Duruy sat down uninvited.
"Are you moving?" he asked.
"Yes," she answered, with a sort of uncertain challenge in her voice; "yes, I'm moving."

"I thought you liked these rooms."
He had an insistent way of making an indifferent remark. At the moment his eye swept the view from the window. She followed his glance with hers, but made no explanation.
"If you will glance over the contract and sign it," he said, looking at
her. "The places and dates are here.
You are to open in the north this season."

The pallor that came to her cheek was noticeable, and she put her hands on the arms of her chair for a mo-

IT WAS HIS VOICE!

ment, then leaned forward, a look of exultation shining in her black eyes.
"Henri," she said, "I am not going to sign any contract this year!"

He was used to hesitation. "Well, why not?"

"I am not going to sing any more
in public," she said, slowly.
He started back aghast for a moment. Then a humorous look stole into the keen black eyes.

"Who is he?" he asked.
She parried, because he was cold and not frigid. "It is all so artificial, this life—striving for new phases of appreciation, for fresh honors. I want the real life."

"Ah! there was contempt, a volume of it, in his tone; 'realities attract you!'"

"Yes," she said sharply, because of his sarcasm; "I leave to-morrow for a real world, a place where love is,
and home and freedom."

"For you," he answered, "that can be only a mirage. Your realities lie in your voice, in your power, in your surroundings. Keep the other for a vision, my lady."

She did not seem to hear him, and spoke quickly. "You see, I must surrender all that is mine to go into the other world. He must live on the plains, going where his work takes him. I cannot even take these books and pictures. But I am glad to go—I cannot wait to start! To-day I am putting these things of the old world into their coffins." She pointed to the open boxes and laughed.

His face narrowed in its intensity.
"You are wild—a mystic with a dream!"

"I am a primeval woman," she said.
"I will not stay here longer! I love him!"

"Your logic is perfect, but I know that you will come back to your world. These things are a part of you"—he looked about the room—
"the noises in the street, the applause at night, the smell of wet pavements."
He rose and offered her his hand. "I do not envy him. If you love him, let him come into your world; enjoy your primeval visions where you can awake from them." His eyes lost their look of amusement, and he measured his prophecy against her faith. "You will not stay away many months. And I am always your friend, though I may have to fill your engagement for this year with someone else."

When he had gone she went back to the books and packed them as though they were hot things that scorched her fingers.

By sea, and racing across the eastern States, watching the prairies roll away from the window, she recalled

the prophecy. She drew a long breath of relief that she was free from the world of the prophet and out in the world of real things. She exulted in her freedom. Had she not surrendered all her things, all her friends and associates, her successes, with joyous content in her strength? Was she not stronger than most women, and was she not approaching love with triumph of soul?

She was vibrant as she sat there and remembered how the struggle had first begun; on board ship, when he had touched her hand as it lay on the rail, when they had looked into the darkness of the night over the darkness of the sea. She had swayed toward him and kissed him, and then caught snatches of his incoherent love words. She was a singer that had won, a woman whose name was before the people of two continents. He knew that, and had asked nothing of her beyond the moment. It would not be right to ask her love, he had said.

And the letters he had written from his field of duty asked nothing of her,
though they were full of his loneliness. He wrote of the plains, of the silence out there, of his willingness to live alone if she would only let him hear from her now and then. In words he had never asked her to come to him; but she was sure of his desire.

Mountains and valleys and prairies,
she had seen before; the plains she had never seen. She waited for them impatiently, and in the morning, when she saw them luminous in the dawn, full of mystery, stretching away as far as a sea stretches, she lay quiet in her berth and watched the colors spread toward her from the horizon.
All day she watched the colors—they made a song for her; they were full of motion. She saw herself riding horseback through the hellotrope haze toward the distant, dim-lined mountains. She saw purple smoke rising from her own tent that lay shining in the midst of the color.

At sunset her breath came faster,
she sang to herself in the rhythm of the wheels that rushed on to the destination. She pictured a morning ride to the camp, and the surprise of the man who had been so lonely. She planned that they should be married at sunset.

The beauty of the hotel, built like an old Spanish mission, surprised her.
The Spanish colors of the sky hung beyond the other end of the plaza like a banner. Before she had left the train she had noticed these things.
And when she had come down to the dining room, and the sky had become a purple curtain, she hastened her dinner so that she might sit out of doors and make for herself a new vision of the tent on the plains.

Just as the waiter put a salad before her she heard a voice outside the window which stopped her heart. It was his voice! It was the voice that had called her into a new life, the voice that had awakened the primeval woman in her and had seemed more to her than the music of applause or the sound of an orchestra. There was the same power in it that she had felt before.

To the surprise of the waiter, she started to rise from the table. But the words reached her—words of a question; and the answer came in a woman's low love laugh, a laugh with truth in it, of surprised contentment and belief. She might have doubted the question; the laugh with the girlish note in it—that she could not doubt. And all the long time when she was trying to eat her salad she had to hear his voice from behind the gently moving curtains.

When the waiter came with her coffee, she looked into his eyes, a queer,
dumb look it was, that belied the richness of her voice. "When does the first train for the east leave?" she asked. "And where can I send a telegram?"—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

Right-Sided Tongue.
From the observations made by a physiognomist it appears that the tongue when quite still can be as eloquent in giving its owner away as when it is wagging sixteen to the dozen. This is a hard fact for a silent man to swallow—in silence. His only remedy is to keep well so as to obviate the necessary injunction of the doctor to put his tongue out, for by this thrust out sign the doctor shall know him.

The tongue of the talker when obtruded inclines to the right side of the mouth, we are asked to believe,
whereas the seldom used tongue gravitates to the left side. Orators, preachers and barristers are endowed with the right-sided tongues. Verbally parsimonious persons have left-sided tongues.

Furthermore, "the tongue that shoots out straight without turning or wavering, indicates a solid, reliable man of affairs." Tongues that turn up indicate impractical natures. A downward, drooping tongue belongs to a person born to poverty and a ready eye to the hopeless side of things.

The cruel tongue flattens and broadens when extended. The delicate speaking organ with curled up edges is the property of an imaginative and artistic being. When the tongue issues forth as if gripped in a dental vice, it signifies a love of life more than ordinary.

Finally we are warned that the individual who thrusts forth his tongue to its extreme verge is a person to whom no secret should ever be confided, for he is an irresponsible chatterer.—London Chronicle.

and tell your troubles first.

Smiles of the Day

Parental Approval.

"Do you think your daughter will develop a fine musical taste?"

"I don't know," answered Mr. Sirins Barker. "The way she objects to playing those 'Easy Pieces for Beginners' encourages me to hope that she will."—Washington Star.

Preparatory Delay.

"Did you ever try gardening?"
"Once," answered the man who always has a discouraged look. "By the time I had read all the publications necessary to inform me on the subject,
the season for flowers and vegetables
was over."—Washington Star.

Had Scattered Them Often.

Employment Agent—Have you had any experience distributing dodgers?
Applicant—Lots. I used to be a chauffeur.

Unfortunately.

lion."

father."

"I know; but, unfortunately, he does not seem to care for mother."

A Specialist.

"Hello, mate, 'ow is it you ain't workin'?"

"Well, it's like this; I works in a domino factory, and I puts on the spots, and they're making double blanks to-day!"—London Opinion.

Its Constituents.

"What is contained in sea water?"
Inquired the chemistry teacher.

"Chloride of sodium," and er-and—

"Well, what else?"

"Fish!"—Cleveland Leader.

"Good day! Truly, I have searched under the various hats for an hour before finding you!"—From Le Figaro.

"Noticeably so?"

"Well, the reporter who wrote up the wedding gave him almost as much space as he devoted to the bride."— Houston Post.

Mortgage the Future.

Benevolent Old Gent—Don't you know, my boy, that you, an American lad, have a chance to be President
when you grow up?

Willie (gloomily)—Naw, I ain't got no chance. I sold my chance to Johnny Billings for a box of marbles.— Harper's Bazar.

Feared Misrepresentation.

"Oh, oh! I'm goin' ter tell yer paw
I caught youse smokin' a butt."

"Tell 'im I wuz smokin', ef yer want ter, Genewieve; but fer goodness' sake be fair. Dis ain't a butt, but a genuine two-fer!"

Their Natural Place.

"Did you see where a newly wedded couple were going to spend their honeymoon in a balloon trip?"

"That's nothing. Honeymooners are generally in the clouds, anyway."— Baltimore American.

Makes Him Smile.

Foots Lighte—Does the manager ever smile at his own show?

Miss Sue Brette—Oh, yes; when he sees the standing-room-only sign out.
—Yonkers Statesman.

Guide to Success.

She—They say your brother was very lucky as a fisherman.

He—Yes, he was; nearly everybody used to believe him.

Challenged.

"You'd marry an idiot if he were to ask you!"

"No, I wouldn't."

"Well, if you don't believe it ask me and see!"—Houston Post.

The Doctor Explained.

The doctor had brought a patient to the hospital. The operation was not to be a complicated one.

"Was it really necessary for the patient to go to the hospital?" somebody asked.

The doctor nodded.

"Yes," he replied. "It means a roof
for the new house I am building."— Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Ancient Art.

"That quaint Miss Passay looks like an old portrait, doesn't she?"

"Not exactly. She reminds me more of a mural painting."

"How's that?"

"She's a perpetual wall flower."— Exchange.

Explaining the Mix-Up.

"How did the accident happen?"
asked the policeman. "Did that motor car scare the horse?"

"No," said the innocent bystander, who was nursing his elbow. "The horse scared the man who was learning to drive the car."—Washington Star.

A Failure.

Patience—She says she married
him to reform him.

Patrice—And he says he was a fool
when he married her.

Patience—Well, she says she hasn't reformed him a bit.—Yonkers Statesman.

The Advantage.

Friend—Why do you encourage these woman's suffrage meetings?

Surely you don't approve of them?

Husband—Approve? With all my heart! I can come home as late as I like now without finding my wife
at home to ask questions.—Fliegende Blätter.

In the Feud Zone.

"May I ask you a question?"

"Sure, stranger."

"Why is everybody in this section mixed up in a feud?"

"Well, nobody keeps to take chances on beln' an innocent bystand-er."—Kansas City Journal.

News in the Zoo.

"Were you a bull or a bear in Wall street?"

"Neither," answered the cautious
man. "Not having funds to invest, I was a giraffe. I just rubber-necked."
—Washington Star.

Chimneys were first used in Europe in the fourteenth century. None of the Roman ruins shows chimneys like ours. The wealthy Romans used carefully dried wood, which would burn in the room without soot.

For the instruction of tourists about the figures of 1898.

There are in Germany about 7,500
hospitals in which 1,200,000 patients are annually treated. Adding to these the inmates of private sanatoria and patients treated at home, it is estimated that at all times one person in sixty of the population is seriously ill.

Texas has taken pattern from New York and now has in effect a law prohibiting gambling at race tracks. The new statute makes betting on a horse
a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of from $200 to $500 if a book is made or a pool is sold, and punishable by a fine of $25 to $100 if a bet is made or a pool bought.

It has been reported that the disease known as trachoma, or granular eyelids, has been spreading rapidly among the Indians. To check this trouble Congress appropriated $12,000, placing it in the hands of the commissioner of Indian affairs, for the immediate investigation and treatment of the disease and to check its spread.

Dean Stanley used to tell his story with relish: He sent a note to a shoemaker about a pair of shoes that were being made for him, and the writing was so bad that the shoemaker couldn't make it out. So he returned the note to the dean, with a note of his own, saying he was "unaccustomed to the chirography of the higher classes."

Greatly interested in watching the men in her grandfather's orchard putting bands of tar around the fruit trees, the little girl asked many questions. Some weeks later, when in the city with her mother, she noticed a man with a mourning band around his left sleeve. "Mamma," she asked,
"what's to keep them from crawling up his other arm?"

While on active service a French soldier was informed by the Mayor of his village that his father had recently died. In acknowledgment he wrote as follows: "Monsieur le maire, I heartily thank you for my father's death. It is a little accident that often happens in families. As for myself, I am in the hospital minus one leg, with which I have the honor to salute you."

The Cleveland Dental Society has petitioned the school board of that city for permission to establish dental clinics in the public schools. An examination by forty members of the society of three thousand pupils has revealed that 90 per cent of them have decayed or decaying teeth. The showing, the health officer of the city says, makes imperative the establishment of clinics.

BALL PLAYERS WHO RETIRED.

The Few Who Did So When at the Height of Their Ability.

The lure of the diamond is so strong that few, very few, professional baseball players have retired from the game as Fielder Jones did in the heyday of his career, the New York Sun says. Jones, who was the captain and manager of the Chicago Americans and once led them to victory in a world's series after winning the pennant in his own league, made a complete renunciation of the game. He said he was going to quit, and quit he did. All the persuasion and inducements in the world could not coax him back.

With Jones it was purely a matter of business. He had interests in Oregon which demanded his personal attention. His partners wanted him to be with them, and as there is no more conscientious or straightforward person to be found he felt that he ought to do so. Much as he loved the national game and strong as was the hold it had on him, he was firm in his intention to say good-by to the diamond.

So he voluntarily gave up a fine position as a ball player and at the same time deprived the game of one of the best players it ever had. As an outfielder he was at the time of his retirement the very best in the big leagues. He was above the average as an all-around player. There have been a good many retirements from the big leagues, but not of the player's own preferences, as in the case of Jones. The causes which take players from fast company are man-ifold. Sometimes they grow too old, sometimes they never had the ability to keep up with the big leaguers, sometimes they are sold back to the minors, sometimes injuries abruptly
bring their careers to a close.

John Ward was another of the few who gave up baseball when he was on the top wave. He was manager and captain of the New Yorks when they won the Temple cup in 1895 and he could have served several years more of usefulness both as a manager and a player. He was playing well at second base when he retired and was as skillful as ever with the bat, but he had made up his mind that it was time to get to his law practice, and nothing could induce him to stay in the game. It wasn't easy sledding at first, but he had the determination to carry it through.

Mike Donlin passed out as a diamond celebrity when riding on the highest wave of popularity. The stage claimed him and the diamond lost him. Like Jones and Ward, he was fond of the game, but as a thespian he thought he saw a brighter future than the game could provide, particularly as the New York club would not come to his terms in the matter of salary. He has stuck to his guns, and the chances are that the national game no more will see this splendid hitter. His case is not altogether analogous to that of Jones and Ward, for money would have persuaded him
to stick.

It wasn't money, however, with Big Bill Lange, who when he was with the Chicago Nationals a few seasons ago, was a fine batter, a fine fielder and a fine base runner. Lange was head and shoulders above the general run of ball players. He was so good a player that it was a pity that professional baseball had to lose him.
He married a California girl, went into business and has not played ball since. He, too, was in his prime as a player when he stepped down and out.

Danny Richardson, the former Giant; Dave Fultz, of the New York Americans; Billy Launder, last with the New York Nationals, and Jimmy Callahan, of the Chicago White Sox, are four more players who gave up the game when they were at the top of their ability. Richardson quit to attend to his dry goods business in Elmira; Fultz quit to take up the practice of law; Launder went into mercantile business, while Callahan's affiliations with so-called outlaw teams
drew him from the big league fold.

Mike Griffin was as good as ever when he terminated his connection with professional baseball. The Brooklyns sold him to the St. Louis club without his consent. He said he'd quit rather than go to St. Louis under the conditions, and he kept his word.
He and the eight others named here were all players above the ordinary in ability.

Foresight.

Little George, who was four years old, had been told many Bible stories.
Among them was the story of the flood and the building of the ark by Noah.
One day a storm threatened. The clouds grew darker, the wind arose,
and suddenly the rain began to fall.

"Auntie," said George, "do you think it is going to storm?"

"Yes, I think it will," was the reply.

"Do you think it will be a hard storm?" asked the little fellow.

"Yes, I think it will be a hard storm," the aunt replied.

"Well, don't you think some of us had better begin building an ark?" he asked.—Los Angeles Times.

who knows, and knows he knows—he is wise—follow him. He who knows, knows he knows not—he is a fool

—shun him. He who knows not, and knows he knows not—he is a child—

HAD WEeping ECZEMA.

Face and Neck Were Raw—Terrible Itching, Inflammation and Soreness—All Treatments Failed—Cuticura a Great Success.

"Eczema began over the top of my ear. It cracked and then began to spread. I had three different doctors and tried several things, but they did me no good. At last one side of my face and my neck were raw. The water ran out of it so that I had to wear medicated cotton, and it was so inflamed and sore that I had to put a piece of cloth over my pillow to keep the water from it, and it would stain the cloth a sort of yellow. The eczema itched so that it seemed as though I could tear my face all to pieces. Then I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and it was not more than three months before it was all healed up. Miss Ann Pearsons, Northfield, Vt., Dec. 19, 1907."

Saved Friend from Scaffold.

Reappearing at his old home in Zacatecas, Mexico, just as a man was about to be shot for his murder, Pedro Ortiz has been the means of giving life to one man and liberty to another man. Ortiz disappeared two years ago and was last seen in company of Ramon Zarate and Bibiano Lira. The dead body of a man was found and identified as that of Ortiz. His two companions were tried and Zarate was convicted and ordered shot, while Lira received a prison sentence. Ortiz returned home just in time to save Zarate from execution.

WISHED FOR DEATH.

Sufferings from Kidney Troubles Were So Acute.

Mrs. Josephine Jeffery, 24th and Washington Sts., Marion, Ind., says: "To look back upon what I have gone through, it seems a miracle that I live, and I feel that I owe it to Doan's Kidney Pills. My case developed gradually. First, backache, floating spots before my eyes, weakness and exhaustion, then a terrible steady pain over the kidneys and an extreme nervousness. Doctors finally said there was no hope for me, but I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and gradually recovered my health."

In a Dilemma.

The error of a clerk involved in a decidedly confusing situation the German gentleman referred to in a story in the New York Times. He may be pardoned if his testimony under the investigation which was ordered proved somewhat incoherent.

On a jury day in the First District Court a stolid-looking German presented to the Justice a certificate from the Commissioner of Jurors. After a rapid glance at the document, the Justice ordered the man to raise his right hand, and administered the oath.

"Your name is Herman Kaufman?"

"Yes, your honor."

"This paper," continued the court, "requests me to excuse Herman Kaufman from jury duty on the ground that he is dead. Now, remember that you have sworn to tell the truth, and think well before you answer. Are you dead?"

"No, your honor," was the bewildered reply, "I don't think I am."

"You claim that you are alive?"

"Yes, your honor."

"That will do. Now take this paper back to the Commissioner of Jurors."

The man did so. When the commissioner examined the certificate, it bore the following indorsement in the Justice's handwriting:

"The deceased, appearing before me in open court, insists, under oath, that he is not dead. Please investigate, and if his testimony be false, have him indicted for perjury."

IT WORKS.

The Laborer Eats Food That Would Wreck an Office Man.

Men who are actively engaged at hard work can sometimes eat food that would wreck a man who is more closely confined.

This is illustrated in the following story:

"I was for 12 years clerk in a store working actively and drank coffee all the time without much trouble until after I entered the telegraph service."

"There I got very little exercise and drinking strong coffee, my nerves grew unsteady and my stomach got weak and I was soon a very sick man. I quit meat and tobacco and in fact I stopped eating everything which I thought might affect me except coffee, but still my condition grew worse and I was all but a wreck."

"I finally quit coffee and commenced to use Postum a few years ago and I am speaking the truth when I say, my condition commenced to improve immediately and to-day I am well and can eat anything I want without any bad effects, all due from shifting from coffee to Postum."

"I told my wife to-day I believed I could digest a brick if I had a cup of Postum to go with it."

"We make it according to directions, boiling it full 20 minutes and use good rich cream and it is certainly delicious."

GOOD SHORT STORIES

A country convert, full of zeal, in his first prayer-meeting remarks offered himself for service. "I am ready to do anything the Lord asks of me," said he, "so long as it's honorable."

Mrs. Smith was showing a visitor a new hat tree she had recently purchased, when little Samuel came in and neglected to remove his hat. Thinking to teach him a lesson, she said: "Samuel, what did I buy that hat tree for?" "For $1.98," answered Samuel, promptly, "but you said I was not to tell anybody."

Sir Frederick Thesiger, while engaged in the conduct of a case, objected to the irregularity of the counsel on the opposite side, who, in examining his witnesses, put leading questions. "I have a right," answered the counsel, "to deal with my witnesses as I please." "To that I offer no objection," retorted Sir Frederick; "you may deal as you like, but you shall not lead."

A little girl was greatly interested in watching the men in her grandfather's orchard putting bands of tar around the fruit trees, and asked a great many questions. Some weeks later, when in the city with her mother, she noticed a gentleman with a mourning band around his left sleeve. "Mamma," she asked, "what's to keep them from crawling up his other arm?"

A French soldier on active service was informed by the mayor of his village that his father had recently died. In acknowledgment he wrote as follows: "Monsieur le maire, I heartily thank you for my father's death. It is a little accident that often happens in families. As for myself, I am in the hospital minus one leg, with which I have the honor to salute you."

A little chap was offered a chance to spend a week in the country, but refused. Coaxing, pleading, arguing, promising of untold wonders alike brought from him nothing but the stubborn ultimatum, "No country for me!" "But why not?" some one asked, finally. "Because," he responded, "they have thrashin' machines down there, and it's bad enough here where it's done by hand."

A little girl, stopping in Boston en route from Connecticut to Maine was very desirous of taking a beautiful Angora cat to the woods with her. Her mother objected on the ground of the care and inconvenience of traveling with the pet, and tried to dissuade the child by offering to give her a dollar to spend in Boston if she would give up the idea. The little girl thought it over, then replied: "But, mother, how much longer a cat would last than a dollar."

For the first time the old lady was about to make a railway journey in England, and when she arrived at the station she did not know what to do. "Young man," she said to a porter, who looked about as old as Methuselah, "can you tell me where I can get my ticket?" "Why, mum," he replied, "you get it at the booking office, through the pigeon hole." Being very stout, she looked at the hole in amazement, and then she burst out in a rage: "Go away with you! How can I get through there? I ain't no blessed pigeon."

When the sailing party of which she had been a member landed on the shores of the lake, rain-soaked and frightened, Mrs. Newrich was the only one who cared to talk. "It could all have been avoided if that captain had done as I told him," she said, between the chattering of her teeth, as the party stood huddled under a small shelter. "When I saw that cloud coming from that corner of the lake I said to him, 'I think you'd better make straight for home, and not spend any more time tacking,' but he paid no more attention than as if I hadn't spoken!"

Grant Allen relates that he was sitting one day under the shade of the Sphinx, turning for some petty point of detail to his Baedeker. A sheik looked at him sadly, and shook his head. "Murray good," he said, in a solemn voice of warning; "Baedeker no good. What for you use Baedeker?" "No, no; Baedeker is best," answered Mr. Allen; "why do you object to Baedeker?" The sheik crossed his hands, and looked down on him with the pitying eyes of Islam. "Baedeker bad book," he repeated; "Murray very good. Murray say, 'Give the sheik half a crown.' Baedeker say, 'Give the sheik a shilling.'"

Riggs and Briggs are two Montreal citizens, more or less interested in municipal affairs. They differ on several burning questions, but unite in a strong dislike for O'Flaherty (which is not the gentleman's name). The same O'Flaherty has a positive gift for manipulating votes and is capable of looking after a larger band of the "faithful" than any other Montreal politician. "It's men like O'Flaherty who give this city a bad name," said Riggs warmly. "He's got no principles at all. In fact, he doesn't think of anything but getting his man in." "That's so," responded Briggs. "If I had a conscience as elastic as O'Flaherty's, I'd make it into a rubber strap."

Joseph H. Choate at a recent banquet in New York praised Attorney-General Wickersham. "When this able man fights," he said, "feathers will fly. But he won't fight until he has a grievance. There will be nothing spectacular, nothing burlesque, about his battles." Mr. Choate smiled. "No," he said, "we shall see nothing of Broncho Bill in Attorney-General Wickersham. Broncho Bill, you know, had only one eye. How did you lose that left optic, Bill?" a young tenderfoot politely asked him. "Lose it?" Bill thundered. "Did you say 'lose' it?" "Why—er—yes," faltered the tenderfoot. "Lose it be hanged," said Bill ferociously. "I cut it out so's I wouldn't allus be havin' to shut it in drawin' a bead."

A young man late one cold and wintry night, found the door of his college locked against him. The young man outside argued with the doorkeeper inside, cajoled, and entreated, but to no avail. Eventually he slipped half a sovereign under the door and was admitted. It was a financial deal wisely thought out on strict business lines. Once inside, he informed the janitor (falsely) that unfortunately, after taking the half-sovereign out of his purse, he had dropped the purse itself on the doorstep. The attendant went out to secure it, but once on the chilly, wet doorstep, the door was slammed. Then the deal was repeated, for the shivering mercenary was not allowed into his warm abode until he had slipped the half-sovereign back again.

MADE A RICH FIND.

Japanese Fishermen Discovered Copper in Queen Charlotte Islands.

Barney S. Murray, of Montreal, who is interested in mining enterprises, is at the New Willard, the Washington Herald says. Speaking of the Japanese, Mr. Murray said last night that Japan's wealthiest man, Toranosuke Furukawa, who is often called the "Rockefeller of Japan," is a partner in a Japanese mining company, the Ikeda copper mines, at Ikeda Bay, Queen Charlotte Islands.

"The Ikeda Bay mines were discovered by Japanese fishermen, not miners," said Mr. Murray, "and the fishermen became miners when their divers found copper afloat while they were seeking abalone."

"The laws of British Columbia are more generous to Japanese and other aliens than those of Japan are to foreigners, and Japanese who discover rich mines in that province are permitted to develop them. Foreigners in Japan could not do what the Ikeda company is doing on Queen Charlotte Islands."

"It seems that several years ago, when the influx of the Japanese to the Fraser River began, Shinazo Aways, who lives at Kiamachibori, in Osaka, the Chicago of Japan, sent Arichika Ikeda to British Columbia to engage in fishing. Business was not any too successful until Ikeda moved to Queen Charlotte Islands. The old river steamer Dawson, which was built for use on the Stikine River, was bought and beached at Ikeda Bay, where it was used as a fishing camp, from which the fishermen operated. They found considerable abalone in the northern water, and were preparing these for shipment when ore was discovered by one of the divers."

"Prospecting followed and fishing was abandoned. The mine, which not long ago started shipping ore to the Crofton smelter, was located. The Japanese locaters reported the mine at the nearest office of a mining recorder under the same terms a British subject would be required to follow."

"The Japanese stockholders are growing rich. They are jealous of their holdings and would not think of allowing a white person to participate in the result of their labor and enterprise."

MOTH PARASITES IMPORTED.

Infested Caterpillars from Europe Come to Fight Gypsy Moth.

An interesting consignment of about 2,000 parasite-bearing caterpillars arrived the other day on the American line steamship New York. They are consigned to Dr. L. O. Howard, chief entomologist of the Agricultural Department, who got back from abroad a few days ago on the Cunarder Mauretania, says the New York Times.

While abroad Dr. Howard gave some time to studying the extermination of the gypsy, or browntail, moth, which has caused serious ravages here, and especially in the New England States. He found there are fifty-two varieties of moth-killing parasites in England, Germany and Austria, but how to get the parasite to this country was another question. It was decided that the only way to import them was to bring in the parasite-infested caterpillars, and so the importation of them has begun. Since May they have been arriving at the rate of about 2,000 a day.

There were ten cases on the New York. They were kept in a steerage compartment forward. In some way a case broke when the consignment was being taken on board at Southampton, and the caterpillars, it is said, set out to explore the vessel soon after she got under way. They managed to get to nearly every part of the vessel, and it was noticed that they always travel down wind. The remaining cases were carried to the stern of the New York, so that if any more caterpillars escaped they would work down wind and over the stern.

IRISH AHEAD OF COLUMBUS.

Proofs of Celtic Invasion of America in First Century.

In a book about to be published here the well-known tradition of a pre-Columbus Irish settlement in America receives startling support, a London dispatch printed in the Detroit Free Press says. With the discovery of certain Arabian and Scandinavian maps in the Casanensis library in Rome the habitation of America by the Celts before Columbus arrived is established beyond question.

The fact that the finder of this interesting information is a woman and the only one of her sex to be appointed by the Pope to assist the commission for the revision of the vulgate only serves to intensify the general interest in the work she is about to lay before the public.

Mrs. Marion Mullhall, author of "The Celtic Sources of the Divina Comedia" and numerous other works, is the discoverer of the hitherto only fabled account of an early invasion of America by the Irish.

The maps she uncovered among the dusty archives of the Casanensis library are of unquestioned authenticity and show that not only did the Irish establish a Christian colony in America in the first century of Christianity, but they gave the name of their native land to that part of the country which they occupied.

Elsewhere in the book, which bears the title "Explorers in the New World Before and After Columbus," are chapters on navigators of the sixteenth century, Irish commanders in Chili and Peru, Hiberno-Spanish notables and various episodes and personalities connected with the romantic conquest of South America. The book omits no important name or event and for the first time gives their due meed to the Irish soldiers and statesmen who have borne such a notable part in South American history.

The concluding chapter deals with the rise and fall of the Jesuit mission in Paraguay.

Mrs. Mullhall, who enjoys the signal honor of being the only woman of any nationality to have received the Pope's unique commendation, is one of Ireland's most distinguished women. By his recognition of her genius for research the holy father has conferred a well-merited honor, so her countrymen declare, on one of the most gifted women of the day. Mrs. Mullhall is the widow of the late Dr. Michael Mullhall, famous as a statistician.

Too Late to Run.

Victor Emmanuel, King of Italy, when prince royal, holding the rank of colonel in a regiment of artillery, was invited to be present at some experiments with a new explosive. The courage which he exhibited recently in the Messina rescue work showed itself at that time, says a writer in the New York Times.

At the very first shot the cannon used burst with terrific force, scattering pieces of metal in every direction, but luckily not seriously injuring anybody. Nevertheless the natural impulse to flee from danger seized officers and experts alike, and off they rushed with more unanimity than dignity.

Only Victor Emmanuel remained at his post. He watched them for a moment, and then, in his quiet tone, called them back.

"No use running now," he said. "All the danger is over!"

HARRIMAN IDEA HOLDS ITS OWN

Robert S. Lovett Succeeds Big Railroad Chief.

TO CARRY OUT FIXED POLICIES

That There Will Be No Changes in the Plans and Dreams Settled Upon by Mr. Harriman, Is Assured by the Action Taken by the Executive Committee of the Union Pacific—The Management of Great Properties Will Continue Under Kuhn, Loeb-Standard Oil Domination.

New York, Sept. 14.—When Robert S. Lovett, E. H. Harriman's personal counsel and close friend, was elected to succeed Mr. Harriman at the head of the executive committee of the Union Pacific railroad, the continuance of the Harriman policies in the management of the Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and the chain of allied railroads was made certain, temporarily, at least. To strengthen further the dominance of the "Harriman idea" Jacob H. Schiff and William Rockefeller—both heavily interested in the Harriman enterprises—were elected directors in place of Mr. Harriman and the late H. H. Rogers, and also were chosen to places on the executive committee.

The Union Pacific still remains without a president, as Mr. Harriman occupied this position also. It is understood, however, that an operating man—probably L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson, will be elected for the place at the annual meeting of stockholders to be held on Oct. 12. Proxies for this meeting already in the hands of Judge Lovett and Alexander Millar, secretary of the Union Pacific, seem to guarantee that election will be dictated by the Harriman interests.

The office which Judge Lovett has thus assumed is the most important in the management and financial supervision of the Union Pacific. Judge Lovett's close associations with Mr. Harriman, particularly during the last weeks of the latter's life, make him, in the opinion of the Harriman lieutenants, peculiarly fitted to assume the responsibilities of the position. He and Loree, the slated candidate for the presidency, share the honor of a close familiarity with Mr. Harriman's plans and dreams for the undeveloped territory over which he hoped to push the ascendancy of his railroad systems.

The directors of the Southern Pacific are in session today. It is taken for granted that their action is fully forecasted by Monday's meeting and that Judge Lovett will be seated as chairman of the executive committee also in Mr. Harriman's place, with Jacob Schiff or some other partner in the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. at his right hand as director and member of the executive committee.

Wall street manifested more than usual interest in Monday's election in view of the rumors which went the rounds last week to the effect that a member of J. P. Morgan & Co. would be elected to the Union Pacific board. No such change developed, and as it now stands, the executive committee remains, in the parlance of the street, a "Kuhn, Loeb-Standard Oil" board. For, besides Judge Lovett, Jacob H. Schiff and William Rockefeller, the members are H. C. Frick of Pittsburgh; Marvin Hughitt, president of the Chicago & Northwestern, and Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City bank, New York.

The failure of the Morgan interests to gain a place on the reconstructed board was a surprise to Wall street, where last week's rumors had been given general credence. It was pointed out, however, that possibly the Morgan interests, fearing disastrous results from any radical changes at this time, may have purposely postponed the selection of a representative until the regular annual election in October.

Judge Lovett, who, in view of his new offices, becomes for the moment one of the most prominent railroad men in the public eye, came to New York city in 1906. Born in Texas, forty-nine years ago, he entered the railroad business while a boy as a $40-a-month freight clerk for the House ton East and West Texas railroad, at Houston. While serving as a freight clerk he studied law at night and eventually became a country counsel for the railroad, journeying from village to village and devoting his talents principally to the settlement of cattle claims cases. Later the receivers of the road made him a district counsel, and his success in straightening out the affairs of the bankrupt company won him promotion to the position of general counsel. His next step was membership in a firm which represented the Southern Pacific. He became so valuable to this system under Mr. Harriman that he was made general counsel with offices at Houston. Three years ago Harriman brought him to this city.

WILL REOPEN THE SUTTON INCIDENT

Second Autopsy Held On Body of Lieutenant.

Washington, Sept. 14.—An examination of the face disclosed a large bruise on the forehead and another on the cheek, when the body of Lieutenant James N. Sutton, Jr., was exhumed in Arlington cemetery. Naval officers minimize the importance of this discovery, stating that it is perfectly natural that such bruises should exist, inasmuch as Lieutenant Sutton was engaged in a fight at the time he came to his death.

Dr. George Tully Vaughan of this city, who represented Mrs. Sutton at the autopsy, said that the bullet wound which caused young Sutton's death was three inches above the right ear and was clean cut. There was no indication that the hair and scalp had been burned by powder. Attorney Van Dyke, associate counsel for Mrs. Sutton, said that he was convinced that the shot had been fired at least five feet from the officer's head and that the wound showed conclusively that it was a physical impossibility for Sutton to have fired the shot.

While the Sutton attorneys are said to have made their plans for the next step in the case, they declined to discuss them.

Mrs. Sutton and her attorneys have indicated that the autopsy just performed will not close the case. Mrs. Sutton is credited with saying, "We will give them the fight of their lives." It is declared that her attorneys will make every effort to bring the men she believes responsible for her son's death to justice. Mrs. Sutton is said to be anxious to have the case presented to a Maryland grand jury.

BLACK HAND OUTRAGE

Utica, N. Y., Stirred Up Over Revelation of Dastardly Crime.

Utica, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Three children, kidnapped from their homes, were found under a big culvert near St. Agnes' cemetery, and Black Handers are believed to be responsible for the terrible crime.

One of the children, Teresa Percola, aged eight years, had been shot to death. Another, Fannie Infusino, aged six, was suffering from bullet wounds in her arm, while the third, Freddie Infusino, aged two and one-half years, was dying from a wound in the abdomen.

The Italian colony, numbering 15,000 persons in Utica, is in a state of wild excitement, and if the kidnappers and assassins are caught and identified grave trouble is feared. The victims are all Italian children.

From the evidence they have in hand the police believe there is no doubt the crime was committed by members of the Black Hand. Two suspects were placed under arrest and put through a thorough sweating.

The Infusino children are daughter and son of Ercola Infusino, owner of a small store in Bleecker street. The Percola family live upstairs over the Infusino home, being their tenants. There have been many Black Hand threats and the elder Infusino has been in constant fear of death because of his failure to comply with blackmailers' demands recently made on him.

Woman Confesses Robbery.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 14.—Asserting that her lover, whose name she refused to divulge, had coerced her into stealing jewelry and other articles from the home of F. W. Bailey of Decatur, where she was employed as a maid, Miss Ethel Ritchey of Indianapolis, confessed to the police that she systematically robbed the home of many articles.

An Ohio Domestic Tragedy.

Jackson, O., Sept. 14.—Philip Fisher shot his wife, Agnes, killing her instantly, and shot Charles Depriest through the eye and nose. Fisher and his wife had not been living together, and he went to her mother's and found her sitting on the porch with Depriest. Fisher fled after firing one shot.

The gross earnings of the railroads of the United States for the year ending June 30 were $2,437,385,841; operating expenses, $1,611,927,766; taxes, $88,961,475, and net operating income, $736,496,600.

The national convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles is in session at Omaha.

THE NORTH POLE GETS 'EM GOING

Cook-Pearry Controversy Is Waxing Warmer.

SCHLEY TAKES A HAND IN IT

In a Letter to the Secretary of the Arctic Club, Rear Admiral Schley Commends the Dignified and Manly Attitude of the Discoverer of the North Pole in the Face of the Detractions of His Rival—Captain Osborn, Secretary of the Club, Pays His Compliments to Peary in Terms That Can Not Well Be Misunderstood.

Battle Harbor, Labrador, Sept. 14.—Commander Peary's steamer Roosevelt has been put in good condition and will leave Battle Harbor on Thursday or Friday for North Sydney. Commander Peary is anxious lest Dr. Cook should reach New York first, although he adds that the Brooklyn explorer's attempts to induce scientists to believe his story will be futile.

New York, Sept. 14.—With Dr. Cook homeward bound and Commander Peary now in touch with the correspondents, two swelling streams of conflicting affirmation are now centered on a city already boiling over. That polar polemics could not only generate but maintain unabated such heat, needed the proof of seeing and hearing to believe. Comment and criticism lack nothing of their previous acidity and rather gain than lose in volume.

Previous assumption that Commander Peary would have the United States navy solidly behind him is not borne out in a letter from Rear Admiral Schley (retired), made public by Captain B. S. Osborn, secretary of the Arctic Club of America, of which Dr. Cook is a member. The letter, under date of Sept. 11, from Pocono Manor, Pa., runs in part as follows:

"I like Cook's attitude immensely in this unfortunate, unnecessary and unwise controversy. He certainly has been dignified and manly in the stand he has taken in this matter."

Captain Osborn followed up his letter from the admiral with a lecture on "Who Discovered the North Pole?"

"Dr. Frederick A. Cook," he said, "was for two years my wife's physician. I saw him two or three times a week, and we chatted many hours. If I have every known a man of integrity, probity, sincerity and modesty, it is Dr. Cook."

"I have known also the other fellow—known him to depart from truth by large margins."

Dr. Cook's attitude in withholding details of his discovery was attributed to his desire not to anticipate the publication of his book. "But as soon as the other claimant got within reach of the wireless," said the captain, "he sent dispatches to everybody he could think of, but delayed in informing the mother of the unfortunate Marvin, who perished during the expedition."

After a meeting of the executive committee of the Arctic Club of America, Dr. R. O. Stebbins, its chairman, gave the club's attitude on the controversy:

"The Arctic Club of America," he said, "has nothing to do with the controversy over the discovery of the pole. All that the Arctic club recognizes is that Dr. Cook is the discoverer of the pole and that Peary reached there. Our only desire is to honor the discoverer. Neither side has proved its case to America, but since the Danish government has recognized Dr. Cook we feel that the burden of proof now falls on his opponents."

"The Arctic club," Mr. Stebbins continued, "will present to Dr. Cook a gold medal, two and a half inches in diameter, showing in bas relief Dr. Cook standing on the top of the globe waving the stars and stripes."

CAUGHT IN RUINS

One Killed and Several Hurt When Dangerous Wall Collapsed.

Pittsburg, Sept. 14.—One man was killed, nine others seriously injured, while several more received cuts and bruises, when the walls at the Black Transfer and Storage company's building here, recently destroyed by fire, collapsed, demolishing two adjoining buildings and burying more than a dozen men in the ruins.

Santos-Dumont's Good Work.

Saint Cyr, France, Sept. 14.—Santos-Dumont has broken the aeroplane speed record to win a wager of $200. With the aeroplane "Demoiselle," he made a flight across the country to Buc, a distance of between eight and nine kilometres, in five minutes, at a speed of about 90 kilometres (55.3 miles) an hour.

Another Delay.

San Francisco, Sept. 14.—The second trial of Patrick Cathoun, president of the United Railways, who was indicted on several charges of bribery, was to have been resumed Monday after an interruption of three weeks, but the court continued the case until next Monday.

EXCITING BRUSH WITH FUGITIVES

Bullets Flew On Streets of Newport, Ky.

Newport, Ky., Sept. 14.—A section of this city was thrown into the wildest excitement by a running fight in which fugitives and policemen figured. The trouble began when Detective Jeff Morton called at a hotel to arrest R. W. Leroy and Isaac Brewer on the charge of detaining fourteen-year-old Florence Gray. Both men are about forty years old. Leroy says he comes from San Francisco; Brewer says his home is in Richmond, Ind., and the girl is the child of a physician of Winchester, Ind.

The girl was taken into custody at the hotel. The men fled. Leroy fired three shots from a revolver. One bullet grazed the head of Detective Jeff Morton. Another pierced the hats of Tony Gastright and James Taylor, spectators. Another pierced the ear of Chris Ebert, city jailer.

By this time a number of police officers joined in pursuit and there was a running battle for several blocks. Many shots were fired at the fugitives, but they were not hit. Two bullets from officers' revolvers went through a plate glass window of a grocery store and barely missed two young women clerks.

Leroy was captured while compelling a Mrs. Binkley, at the point of a revolver, to give him a suit of her husband's clothing in her home. Brewer escaped.

Left Winchester Friday.

Winchester, Ind., Sept. 14.—Florence Gray, daughter of Dr. W. S. Gray, this city, left here Friday for Middletown, O., where a married sister and her mother live. She is fourteen. Steps to send her to the Indiana Girls' school as an incorrigible were threatened when she left. Nothing is known here of R. W. Leroy or Ike Brewer, her associates. Word had reached her father of the girl's arrival at Middletown.

Two Towns Want Courthouse.

Mattoon, Ill., Sept. 14.—The proposition for the removal of the Douglas county courthouse from Tuscola to Camargo will be voted upon by the people on Oct. 12. Tuscola has always had the temple of justice, but now that a new building is needed, an effort is to be made by Camargo to get the prize. The fight has become one of the most bitter ever waged in the county.

Anty Drudge Talks to a Woman Who Hasn't Tried the New Way of Washing.

Anty Drudge—"You poor unfortunate victim of the old-time washday habit! Why won't you wash in the Fels-Naptha way, and strike off the chains that bind you to the steaming washboiler and the all-day hard rub-rub on the washboard?"

If you really believed what we say about Fels-Naptha you would use it, wouldn't you?

But you think that it's too easy—impossible.

Many men are wealthy to-day because the majority thought the same thing about the telephone.

To you boiling seems necessary to thorough cleansing.

With soaps of the old sort it is.

The clothes must be boiled in order to get the dirt out by rubbing.

Incidentally much of it gets rubbed in.

Fels-Naptha separates the dirt from the fabric in cool or lukewarm water.

Once separated it is easily rinsed away.

But you must remember that Fels-Naptha is made to be used in cool or lukewarm water, summer or winter.

Get Fels-Naptha to-day and follow directions on red and green wrapper.

BRUTAL ATTACK

Indiana Young Man Beats Father
With a Pitchfork.

Brazil, Ind., Sept. 14.—Charles Winter, aged thirty-two, living at New England, east of here, was brought to this city by Sheriff Prince and placed in jail, charged with assault and battery with intent to kill on his father, Daniel, aged sixty-five. The assault was made, it is said, during a row over the distribution of household goods.

In a fit of anger, the police say, the son seized the handle of a pitchfork and beat his father over the head.

The Friends' Yearly Meeting.

Richmond, Ind., Sept. 14.—Arrangements for the eighty-ninth annual session of Indiana yearly meeting of Friends have been completed and the program calls for the opening of deliberations on Wednesday, Sept. 22, and adjournment on Sept. 28.

Body Was Torn to Pieces.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 14.—Vernon Carnahan, aged twenty-one, was instantly killed by the premature explosion of dynamite. His body was torn to pieces. Carnahan was assisting in the construction of a road when the accident occurred.
